Post- Trip Lesson Plan Social Games

Instructions: The list below names the many games and social activities that children and families enjoyed participating in, in 1898. Circle the activities that you enjoy to participate in today in Yellow and the activities that you have never played in Red. Circle the games you believe a boy would play in Blue and the games you believe a girl would play in Green. Draw a star next to the social activities that you do not know.

Girls usually participated in activities like playing dolls, playing house, or imitating other chores performed around the house.

Boys engaged in playing action games that involved much movement and physical activity. Many of these were mostly outdoor activities.

Although it was most unusual for boys and girls to participate in activities together, sometimes they might play group games at school recess or after Church services.
